

BURN CHURCHES, SAYS PREACHER

Binghamton, N. Y., Pastor Says There Are Too Many
for Country's Good.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Much comment has been caused by the startling statement that it would be better if many churches were burned, made by President Stryker of Hamilton College in a sermon preached in the First Congregational Church in this city.

"Probably 5000 churches in this country could be spared if they were disposed of in that way," declared President Stryker. "In too many places the number of churches erected is entirely beyond the need of the communities now and for a long time to come. They are living at a poor dining rate, and it would be better if many of the churches were burned, the people gathered in one large church and the surplus of money used to carry the gospel into those fields where it has not yet been taken. By so doing the cause of Christ and humanity would be far better conserved."

POPE BELIEVES HE WILL DIE IN 1912

Father Phelan Says Vatican Is Convinced of Fate's Decree.

That Pope Pius X. is destined by Fate to wear the triple crown until 1912, and no longer, is a belief prevailing at the Vatican and shared by the pontiff himself, according to Rev. Father D. S. Phelan, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and editor of the Western Watchman, who has just returned to St. Louis from Rome.

"This belief is based," said Father Phelan Tuesday, "on the striking fact that the three churchly offices previously bestowed on him have lasted for terms of nine years. He was a canon for nine years, a bishop for nine years and a cardinal for the same period. He has now passed two years of what it is believed at Rome will be his last cycle of nine years."

Father Phelan had several interviews with the Pope. "His Holiness," he said, "is simple and quiet, and all his efforts are for peace. I was pleased to find that the hostility which was so pronounced between the Quirinal and the Vatican five years ago has almost entirely disappeared."

While in Rome Father Phelan introduced Americans to the Pope, three of them St. Louisans and one the wife of a Pittsburgh millionaire.

WEDS COACHMAN, ALREADY MARRIED

Miss Dearborn of Boston Runs Away With Driver Whose Wife Objects.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—"If Harry ever obtained a divorce from me, I never heard of it," said Mrs. Flora Blackburn Gill of Franklin, N. H.

She declares that she is the wife of Harry Gill, former coachman for Miss Cordelia Hatch Dearborn, to whom Miss Dearborn was married last Wednesday in Brookline.

Gill's marriage to Miss Dearborn was surrounded by secrecy. Miss Dearborn, with her mother, spent last summer in Hopkinton, N. H., near the birthplace of her father. Mother and daughter spent much of their time in carriage rides into the country. Gill was engaged as coachman.

Recently Mrs. Dearborn left Hopkinton and returned to New York. Last Tuesday Gill drove Miss Dearborn to Concord. The young woman did not return, but wrote to a relative that she had decided to join her mother in New York, thus relieving her friends of any anxiety about her whereabouts.

"They were married the next day, but it was learned today that after driving Miss Dearborn to Concord on the day before, Gill had continued on to Franklin, N. H. There he called on Edward G. Leach, a lawyer. Gill inquired about getting a divorce, and being advised that he had no grounds for a suit, he left town."

ONE WRAPPER EACH YEAR FOR WIFE

One Pair of Stockings Did for
Two Years Before
Divorce.

PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 10.—When Myrtle R. Ray proved to the satisfaction of a jury in the County Court that in the entire two years of her wedded life her husband, Holland T. Ray, had bought her only two pairs of stockings, she did not need to introduce evidence to prove all the other charges she made in her complaint.

She asserted that her "married life has been a living hell," and she closed her complaint with the statement "that there are, thank God, no children born as a fruit of this unhappy marriage."

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff without leaving their seats.

MURDER CHARGE FOR DAM DEFENDER

Officers Will Again Try to Arrest Dietz and His Shotgun.

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Oct. 10.—John F. Dietz, who for two years denied the courts and lumber companies and held the Cameron dam on the Thornapple River, has been charged, along with Valentine Weisenbach, with attempted murder.

The authorities plan to try these men in the Circuit Court next week, conditioned on their success in arresting Dietz. Several attempts have been made to serve the warrant, but Dietz has hidden the officers at bay with a shotgun.

The charge against Dietz is that he shot Pat McGlin in the arm last May while McGlin was on his way to the dam, over which Dietz keeps guard and permits no person to approach.

SCHOOL BOY WEDS WOMAN PAST 54

Bride's Brother Objects, but She Owns a Paying Business.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 10.—Clarence Clayton, the 18-year-old son of Cassius Clayton of Chicago, is announced to be the husband of Miss Maggie Ellen Sloan, 54 years old, of Syracuse, N. Y., who is a woman of means and conducts a cafe.

The wedding was celebrated secretly at St. Joseph, Mich., and when the bride's brother learned of it he became enraged and refused to allow the sister's boy-husband to enter the cafe. Mrs. Clayton then procured accommodations for the youth at a rival restaurant. Clayton is still engaged in his studies in school.

Miss Sloan had rejected several offers of marriage. The bride declares young Clayton is her ideal and that she will take him as an equal partner in the ownership of the cafe.

OSSIFIED NECK MAY SAVE LIFE

Chicagoan Convicted of Murder
Has Chance to Escape Hanging.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—An ossified man has the State of Illinois up in the air. He committed a brutal murder and the State wants to hang him but it cannot.

He has been convicted of murder in the first degree, which means the halter, but the State cannot choke him to death.

Why? Because he is ossified. His name is Robert Gardiner. He is about five feet tall, and weighs 100 pounds. He killed Agnes Morrison of whom he was jealous. He was arraigned before Judge Tuley to be officially sent to the gallows. Then his attorney, William Buckner, started the court by turning to Assistant State Attorney Barbour and saying:

"Jim, this is a case where it won't do you any good to ask for the death penalty. They can't break this fellow's neck if they do try to hang him. And you may lose altogether by hanging him and failing to execute the sentence in full."

Barbour got interested. It was learned that "ostia spondilitis," which in plain English is interpreted as ossification of the vertebrae and tissues of the neck. According to Prof. Steffenon of the Rush Medical College, only five cases of it have ever come to the notice of the medical profession.

Gardiner, who was formerly a cashier, carries his head tilted forward and slightly twisted to one side. He is unable to move or incline it except with great effort, and is hardly able to eat or speak owing to the effect of the ossification on the sympathetic membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes.

Attorney Buckner declares that the hardening of the bone and tissue has proceeded so far that it would be impossible to bring any strain upon the patient's neck that would be sufficiently severe to cause any discomfort other than a slight straining of the muscles. Sentence was not passed and Gardiner may escape the noose.

HIS FATAL MISTAKE.
From the ATALA Constitution.
"Adam wuz his own boss, wasn't he?"
"Yes; an' if he hadn't gone ter sleep at de wrong time he'd 'a' been so yit!"

SON TAKES HIS FATHER'S LIFE

Hot Springs Doctor Shot as Result of Family Quarrel.

DAUGHTER IS WITNESS

Intense Indignation and Slayer May Be Lynched if Captured.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 10.—Shot and killed by his own son was the fate of Dr. George H. Alexander, an old and prominent physician of this city. His daughter, Miss Anna Alexander, was the only witness to the tragedy.

The physician was slain on Garland avenue within a block of the family residence.

Dr. Alexander and his daughter were returning home when they were suddenly confronted by the son and with the words, "Now I have got you," he began firing at his father. The first shot took effect, and Dr. Alexander fell into the street. His daughter, ten minutes later, without regaining consciousness, the daughter threw herself upon her brother when the first shot was fired and prevented any more of the shots taking effect.

Two years ago the father and son became estranged because of domestic troubles.

The son changed his name at that time, and has since persisted in being known as Mitch Johnson. He is a painting contractor, and is about 35 years old. Dr. Alexander was past 60.

After the shooting the son fled, and has so far eluded arrest.

Intense feeling has been aroused by the crime, and if the son is captured the police will be forced to guard him closely, as threats of lynching are made.

NIGHT SCHOOLS OPEN.

Free to Youths, but Adults Must Pay Small Fee.

The opening session of the public evening schools was held Monday evening. The enrollment was 261, an increase of 415 over the opening night of last year. The attendance at the two high schools, McKinley and Central, was 208 and 203, respectively.

Students between the ages of 14 and 20 are admitted free. Adults are required to pay $1 a quarter, or $1 for 90 lessons. Books are provided free.

The full course is five years of 20 weeks each, three lessons a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

In most of the schools there are classes in drawing for mechanics and classes in bookkeeping. Within the number applying is sufficient classes are formed for foreigners who wish to study English.

The public evening high school held in the Central High School building, on Grand avenue near Finney, is called the "O'Fallon Polytechnic Institute." English language and literature, algebra, geometry, physics, chemistry, drawing and bookkeeping are taught there. If twenty qualified pupils apply for instruction in a high school study of a technological character Supt. Soltan intends to provide a teacher for them. Spanish and photography were taught last year.

MRS. LEV'S STATEMENT.

Says Driver's Mistake Caused Her Trouble Over Mortgaged Furniture.

Mrs. Sophia Lev, who was brought back from Cleveland to answer to the charge of removing mortgaged property from the State, blames the mistake of a driver for her difficulties. She says the driver of a furniture van loaded mortgaged articles with her other furniture during her absence.

Mrs. Lev left St. Louis about a year ago. She says she has been prosecuting her now has known all along where she was and tried by call process to get possession of the articles of furniture in Chicago.

At the request of Rev. Charles A. Eaton of Cleveland, Rockefeller's pastor, Rev. W. J. Williamson of Third Baptist Church has undertaken to get a bondsman for Mrs. Lev.

PRESIDENT DROPS TARIFF REVISION

To Concentrate Entire Effort on Railroad Rates—"Stand-Patters" Jubilant.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Roosevelt has abandoned his tariff revision policy so far as recommendations in his annual message to Congress are concerned and he will concentrate his fire on the question of railroad rate legislation.

He has decided that the only way to secure the latter legislation is to focus the eyes of the country upon the railroad question, as to attempt legislation along both lines would invite defeat.

The only thing that would make the tariff question acute at this time would be a large deficit in the treasury. Mr. Roosevelt is convinced that the best interest of the country is to defer the tariff to other leaders who declare that it would be fatal to the business interests of the country to disturb the tariff at present.

The stand-patters are jubilant over the President's decision.

GALE RAGING ON THE GULF COAST

Much Damage Expected to Shipping as Seas Are Running High.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 10.—A heavy gale is raging on the Gulf of Mexico and it is feared shipping has suffered.

The refrigerating ship Port Lemon and the Danish steamer Rona went out in the teeth of the gale, and the pilots were unable to leave.

The seas are running high and much damage is expected to be reported from the coast towns. Meager reports of damage along the Mississippi Coast are coming in.

The telegraph companies will be heavy losers.

The Bain shell boat, a famous drive way running out of this city, has been damaged badly.

The wind blew 50 miles an hour at Fort Morgan and many trees and smokestacks were blown down.

MAYOR DUNNE'S PLAN DEFEATED

Chicago Council Rejects Immediate Municipal Ownership Scheme 45 to 18.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Mayor Dunne's "contract plan" for immediate municipal ownership received a knockout blow in the City Council last night. By a vote of 45 to 18 the aldermen rejected the plan.

Fully 24 aldermen were elected on the municipal ownership platform with the Mayor. The apparent betrayal of the people's trust is creating a whirlwind of indignation among the Mayor's followers. The aldermen assert they are still in the municipal ownership, but not on the Dunne plan.

The "contract plan" was to lease to a company for 20 years all the city's rights in the streets, the company to be guaranteed by the city 5 per cent on all money invested and the city to take the rest of the profits. At the end of the period the company was to turn over to the city its rolling stock and improvements for a fair compensation.

CHILD DIVORCEE DIES FOR LOVE

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl, Twice Married, Twice Divorced, Takes Poison.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 10.—Twice married and twice divorced, 15-year-old Julia Beard committed suicide at a hotel here last night because she could not marry a third husband.

She was infatuated with Walter Gardner, a stenographer, and when he refused to marry her she swallowed strychnine and died in his arms, saying, "I cannot marry you, but I can die." She was dead before the doctor came.

A year ago the girl married Thomas Johnson. She left him and married John Aaron. She was arrested for bigamy, but as she was given a divorce from both husbands the same day the prosecution was dropped.

HOUSEKEEPER FOR DOUGHERTY INSANE

Annie Wald Suddenly Loses Mind and Excited Relatives Blame Indicted Banker.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Annie Wald, a widow, 39 years old, who has been for some time housekeeper for Newton C. Dougherty, the indicted banker-educator of this city, has suddenly become insane and it has become necessary to have her removed to a sanitarium.

Excited relatives blame Dougherty for her condition.

Her uncle telephoned Chief of Police Kennedy to not let Dougherty out of jail.

It is believed that the girl, who was very much attached to the Dougherty family, became unbalanced brooding over his troubles.

Dougherty looks utterly broken down in jail, whither he was removed immediately after the return of 31 additional indictments against him by the grand jury yesterday afternoon.

Today attachments have been issued against a large amount of Dougherty's property of the School Board, $20,000 at least being involved in the action.

Gigantic Sale of Silk and Cotton Petticoats

Nearly 6000 garments—about 200 styles—at prices that represent a saving of one-third

HERE is bargain news that will please those who are contemplating buying new Underskirts. Almost 6000 garments, embracing about 200 of the newest styles, will be sold for what the plain material would cost you.

IT'S a bargain occasion that stands without a parallel in the history of our department. A series of circumstances combine to make this great sale possible. We bought Petticoats from manufacturers who were overstocked, also from those who were pressed for cash. Other garments were contracted for during the dull period.

THE manifold advantages gained by these various transactions will be apparent in the prices we quote. This much we will say: that St. Louis has never witnessed such a Petticoat sale as we will hold tomorrow, nor have equal values been given.

EVERY available inch of space in the Muslim Underwear Section on second floor will be added to that usually allotted to the Petticoat Department, and a number of extra salespeople will be here to serve you. The sale begins at 8 o'clock.

A $4.00 Silk Petticoat for $2.50

THIS offer stands unique in the annals of St. Louis retailing. It's without a precedent. We claim that $2.50 is the lowest a Pure Silk Petticoat has ever been sold for, and these will give splendid service. Come in rich black and changeables; made like illustration; just about enough for one day's selling. Only one will be sold to each customer.

A LITTLE STEALTH

Some of the most lovable and best people in the world are cranky, and a "leftie" hard to manage, particularly when you want to do them good. Then it is that justifiable and righteous artfulness may be restored to. As, for instance, in the following case given by a devoted wife and mother, in Iowa:

"This Spring my daughter, who is a teacher, became convinced that coffee was doing her harm, as it caused distress and belching after eating. She felt that she needed a warm drink in the morning but disliked hot water or milk. Then our daily use of Grape-Nuts suggested Postum.

For some time my husband, who has been a user of coffee from his youth, had been more than usually troubled with sleeplessness and nervousness and felt that Postum might be helpful to him. The question was, how to persuade them to leave off drinking coffee and try Postum, against which they had repeatedly expressed prejudice. I resolved to try an experiment and make the test.

"Without acquainting them with the fact I made Postum according to directions, but added a teaspoonful of good coffee. I poured it out with some misgivings, but was delighted to see that no one could tell from its appearance that it was not rich, strong coffee. Its use was continued for a week with the coffee addition, then that was gradually withdrawn, until only the pure Postum remained, and still the change had not been detected.

"Two things were very noticeable, however, that my daughter had begun to rapidly improve in health, her depression left, and my husband was enjoying sweet, refreshing sleep.

"When I ventured to tell them what I had done, he asked for a return to the coffee, and I gladly made it for him; but one day satisfied him, the old sleeplessness came back and he told me he liked the Postum better. So we have used it ever since to the benefit of the whole family." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

NOW THE POLICE MUST "MOVE ON"

Chief Kiely and His Aides Will Have to Leave Four Courts.

NO ROOM FOR THEM

New Court Necessitates Temporary Quarters for Department Right Away.

They will back the wagon up to the door of Chief Kiely's Four Courts office before many days. The Chief will not have to get in and ride if he prefers walking, but he will be near by to see that the officers of the new court are taken from the office walls to be loaded into the wagon are tenderly handled. For it is to be "22" at Four Courts for the Chief and all his personal and office belongings.

Chief Desmond and his attractive educational display of photographs and curio will have to go, too, and the wagon will probably have to make a third trip for the effects of the Police Board secretary.

In Doubt Where to Go.

Just where the official refuge is to go no one at the Four Courts seems to know. They must get out of the building, because the space they now occupy is needed for a new courtroom. They can't go to City Hall, for that building is full now. They must not go far away, for the jail and warrant office, with which they have much to do, are there. They do not like the idea of becoming tenants of apartments over some Clark avenue saloon, but there is not much else in the way of rooms to be had near by.

The new quarters are not to be permanent, they assure us, but Chief Kiely and Desmond recall how long the "temporary" City Hospital was occupied, and wish the new court hadn't butted in.

Mayor Wells' bond provides for a new building for police headquarters and jail, and it has been hinted that the enforced move is intended to force the police active workers for the bond issue.

The Police Board has approved the removal order as necessary, and is figuring on new quarters.

MOCKING CAUSED RIOT.

New York Jews Resent Jibes on Celebration of Yom Kippur.

SPECIAL to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The slight of socialistic Jews eating and drinking in public and mocking orthodox Jews who fasted 30 hours in observance of Yom Kippur, or day of atonement, caused a riot on East Broadway yesterday, to the great surprise of police reserve summoned.

At the corner of East Broadway and Clinton street is the headquarters of a socialistic revolutionary organization, known as the Bund. The Hebrew Institute building and two temporary synagogues are on the same block.

Ten thousand people packed East Broadway when the police arrived and fighting was in progress.

Five young men were arrested. Soon there was another fight, and more arrests followed. Altogether about ten were made. The police several times during the evening were forced to club heads.

More than 400,000 Jews observed the day of atonement, the most important Jewish fast day of the year. More than 50,000 Jews could not get in to places of worship, many were praying in the parks throughout the day.

MOTIVE WAS ROBBERY.

Inspection Olney House, Middletown, N. Y., Shows Triple Murderer's Cause.

SPECIAL to the Post-Dispatch. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 10.—One man working with a confederate lured Frederick and Willie Olney to the Durby Woods on the hillside of their farm and there shot them and returned to the home and killed them. This fact is established by the identification of the authorities, but the identification of the man and clues which may lead to his capture are as remote as ever. The aged brothers were held to rest yesterday afternoon.

Inspection of the interior of the Olney home has furnished the authorities with the clue on which the investigation is now principally based. This clue leads to the conclusion that the deaths of the aged brothers were carefully planned and undoubtedly for the purpose of robbery. Less importance is now attached to the theory that jealousy or a murderous impulse prompted the triple killing.

TOOK HIM FOR CHINAMAN.

German Professor Angry at Treatment by Customs Officers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Dr. Theodore Zincke, Professor of Chemistry in the University of Marburg, Germany, who passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to New York, declared that, although he had traveled all over Europe, Asia and Africa, he had never before received such discourteous treatment as was given him when he entered the United States.

He asserted that on his way to Seattle last week he was "treated like a Chinaman," and forced to pay a fee of $2 before he was allowed to cross the boundary line.

Prof. Zincke was a classmate of Ira Remsen, one of the authorities on chemistry in the United States. His visit to Chicago was to renew his friendship with two of his former pupils, Dr. Max Henius and Dr. Robert Wahl. To them he asserted that on his arrival at Chicago many he will lay the matter before the Bureau of Foreign Affairs.

MRS. MANNING TO TRY.

Would Have Congress Print Report of Lady Managers St. Louis Exposition.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Daniel Manning of New York, president of the Board of Lady Managers of the St. Louis Exposition, has given notice that she is coming to Washington this winter to induce Congress to print the report of the body. This document contains 125,000 words and to print would make a bulky document.

Representative Charles B. Landis of Indiana, chairman of the House Committee on Printing, has been advised of Mrs. Manning's intention. He is opposed to the Government bearing the cost of the printing and the distribution of the report of the lady managers.

The Chautauqua Circle of the Y. M. H. A. will hold a meeting at the Home, Taylor and Olive streets, this evening at 8 o'clock. Officers will be elected and a committee report on the work for the ensuing year will be received.

Werner Bros.

The Republic Building,
On Olive Street at Seventh.

ALL our sayings are founded on the absolute knowledge of clothes-craft and the necessary requirements for overcoming certain difficulties. This is plainly evident in the making and fit of our fashionable Top Coats.

We maintain a standard that is irreproachable.

The standard permits of nothing but perfection throughout and is accomplished through the agency of skilled and intelligent minds.

The fineness of materials, the finishings, linings and little parts that are obscure and insignificant, but go to make up a perfect garment, are the details which receive closest attention and make our ready-for-service garments equal to, if not better than, the finest custom-made, at a saving of one-third to one-half.

KING OF CARIBOU IS ELECTROCUTED

How Mr. Strang Obtained His Splendid 24-Point Deer's Head in Close Season.

LAY IN WAIT FOR ANIMAL

In a Terrific Storm the Monster, Which Caught Wire, Was Hit by Bolt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—J. C. Strang of Brooklyn, an enthusiastic sportsman, returned last week from Newfoundland, where he had spent three months camping and fishing at the head of Deer Lake, one of the most famous waterways in that wonderful country.

The camp was about 125 miles from Port-aux-Basques. Mr. Strang has brought back a collection of stories, and also of trophies, which would stagger the most seasoned woodsman.

Sportsman Strang is wise to all the wrinkles and intricacies of woodcraft. He lives in the "open" as much as his business will permit, and is a dead shot, successful trapper and scientific fisherman. His trophies would adorn a museum, his equipment set forth an arsenal or a sporting goods house and his tales fill a volume.

His Chief Trophy.

The prize specimen in his collection, the chief trophy of his happy season in the wilderness, is a magnificent caribou head of a couple of dozen points. It must have belonged to the old king of the caribou himself.

It was the close season during Mr. Strang's stay in the woods, and, therefore, the caribou could not have been shot. The hunter's explanation of how the stag's head came into his possession is therefore most entertaining.

"We had been camping, my guide and myself," he said, "at the head of Deer Lake, directly in the path the caribou tread their yearly migrations from north to south. Every night dozens of these animals and some times a herd of a hundred or more would enter the narrow strip of water at the head of the lake and swim across to the other side. One could almost imagine they were tame as they turned out to grass so little did they seem to fear man."

"On the night of Aug. 23, and all through that day a terrific storm of thunder and lightning accompanied by a wind of hurricane force, raged over the interior section of the country in which we were camping. The storm uprooted the largest trees and threw them about hither and yon. The guide and I were sitting on the outside under the lee of our shelter when suddenly there came a crash in the bushes to the left of us."

"A magnificent stag caribou bounded into the clearing not 20 feet from where we sat. With head raised high and in a strident, hoarse, bellowing cry he uttered a series of notes that were almost deafening. The air, followed by a flash of lightning that nearly paralyzed us both. In the center of the shaft stood the deer, seemingly petrified. The next morning we found the caribou dead on the spot where we had seen him on the night before. We traced the animal to the upper prongs of his antlers was a piece of telegraph wire about ten feet long. The wire had acted as a conductor and the animal had been electrocuted."

WANT MAIL CLERKS.

Big Demand for Men in Railway Service—Examination Nov. 8.

Although there were 700 applicants for positions in the Railway Mail Service in the United States six months ago, the Civil Service Commission is now advertising an examination to be held in St. Louis, Nov. 8. Railway mail clerks are badly needed.

At the St. Louis office of the Railway Mail Service no explanation is offered for the demand so soon after the over-supply of a few Embroideries. There are many resignations from the service, due to the fact that applicants for the places do not realize the extent of the work required.

It is stated that there are frequent instances of men taking a run once or twice and then resigning. Frequently mail clerks are able to command a larger salary in other work and resign for that reason.

An examination will be held in St. Louis Nov. 8 at the position of inspector of stores and leather under the Quartermaster in the War Department. This examination will be held only in St. Louis, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

SHEVLIN IS EXONERATED.

The inquiry of a committee of the City Council at St. Louis, Mo., resulted in the complete exoneration of chief of Detectives John W. Shevlin, formerly of St. Louis. He is held by the committee to be innocent of the department and made against him and his department.

FATHER STANOWSKI UNRUFFLED.

According to Father Stanowski, pastor of St. Stanislaus' Polish Catholic Church, there have been no further developments for his resignation and the priest is inclined to the recent uprising as a matter of minor importance and one that will soon be forgotten. The whole trouble was caused by a few dissatisfied and mistaken members of my parish," said the father. "These people, but they are Poles and good-hearted. They will be sorry for their action and probably will be seeking my pardon within a few days."

TO GET AFTER STINGY STORK

St. Louis Medical Society Takes
Up the Matter of Low Birth Rate.

THINKS RECORDS WRONG

President Homan and Drs.
Brown and Scherck Are to Act.

Dr. George Homan, president of the St. Louis Medical Society, has called a meeting of the Committee on Public Health and Legislation of the society to see what can be done to improve the birth record of the city.

The call was prompted by the revelations made by the Post-Dispatch last Sunday, which showed that, according to the records, St. Louis is by no means holding up its end in the matter of increasing the population.

The committee is composed of Dr. Homan, president; Dr. John Young Brown, superintendent of the City Hospital, and Dr. H. J. Scherck, chief dispensary physician.

It is probable that the subject will be brought up at the next meeting of the medical society for general discussion.

IN DOUBT AS TO REMEDY.
Dr. Homan said Tuesday: "It is somewhat premature to discuss what may be done. I have reached no conclusions myself. It is plain that something is wrong. The members of the committee will get together and compare notes and find out what the statistics and ordinances provide relative to the registration of birth, whether they have been amended of late years and whether there is not something which can be done in that regard."

It is apparent that St. Louis does not get credit for nearly all the babies that are born here, the statistics being made up from the return of birth certificates.
Whether an actual increase of birthrate can be brought about is another question. Every person has influence. It is certainly true that if the crop fails the supply must fall short.

FATHER ENDEAVOR SAILS.

Rev. Dr. Clark Will Remain Abroad for Geneva Convention.

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, has sailed for Geneva on the Canopia. After a few weeks of rest Dr.
Clark will begin the preparation of the "Quarter-Century History of Christian Endeavor."

The society has now extended into every country throughout the world, and is growing rapidly on the Continent of Europe, as well as in all other lands.
The Quarter-Century Convention of the movement will be held in Geneva, Switzerland, next July, and Dr. Clark will probably remain for that meeting, which will attract a large number of delegates from all parts of the world.
Dr. Clark is accompanied by his wife and one son.

GUNS FOR CHAUFFEURS.

County Residents Propose Stop-Watch
System on Highway.

Certain citizens of St. Louis County think they have found a method which will, as they express it, abate the automobile nuisance and are preparing a petition to the County Circuit Court to enact their plan, which includes the use of the shotgun.

They desire to have Clayton road patrolled by armed guards, stationed at certain distances apart. Whenever one detects the odor of gasoline floating by he shall fire his gun and set his stop-watch. The next guard shall do the same, and in this manner the exact speed of the machine will be determined.
The gun is also to act as a check on those who will stop for nothing else.

STRANGLER WITH APRON.

Child Saved From Vicious Brute by Resourceful Aunt.

Mrs. Martha Ryan of East St. Louis saved her 3-year-old nephew, Jesse Jenkins, Monday, from the attack of a vicious dog by wrapping the strings of her apron around the animal's neck until it choked to death. The little boy was playing in the yard of her parents, 1821 Natalie avenue, when attacked.
He was bitten but not seriously hurt.
When the child screamed Mrs. Ryan rushed into the yard and threw her apron over the dog's head. She then wound the apron strings around its neck, strangling the brute. The child was bitten through the left ear and on the right cheek.

BRIDGE FIGHT AT OMAHA.

Iowa Merchants Begin War on Union
Pacific Arbitrary on Freight.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 10.—A fight against the Union Pacific westbound arbitrary on freight over the bridge across the Missouri River at this point has been inaugurated by the merchants and jobbing shippers of Iowa.

The Omaha jobbers several years ago, after 15 years' fighting, succeeded in having the eastbound arbitrary abolished. The action of the Iowa manufacturers in forcing the fight is attributed by the recent stand which President Roosevelt has taken against monopolizing the bridge and ferry business at St. Louis.

Child have been busy since their

ROBBED UTAH ON BOUNTY FRAUDS

Men Under Arrest for Swindle Which Runs Into Many Thousands of Dollars.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 10.—

Armed with a package of letters written by Ernest Wagner of New York to George Kunisay, the State authorities think they have found proof of the method by which Utah has been swindled out of thousands of dollars in the last two years.

The State says bounties ranging from 25 cents to $5 on the skins of certain animals killed within its boundaries.
Jones said that he and the others had brought into the State thousands of beaver, wolf and coyote pelts on which they obtained bounties. They were reaping a fortune when the conspiracy was discovered.

There are 22 indictments against each member of the gang.

WAGNER ADMITS SALE

OF PELTS TO RUMSBY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Ernest Wagner, a well-known fur dealer of this city, frankly admits supplying many skins to George Rumsby and others under indictment in Utah for defrauding
the State on the fur bounty.

"Rumsby came to my place some two years ago," said Mr. Wagner, "and requested me that he was a Western trader. He wanted to buy a large number of pelts of an inferior grade for mounting. I demanded cash for the skins and he paid."

"From time to time I got other orders from Rumsby, and in each case I supplied the skins. I was not concerned about what he was doing with them."

HOYT WILL CUTS OFF RELATIVES

Woman Who Fought Hetty
Green Leaves Million to Companion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The will of Miss Mary Irene Hoyt, just filed in Surrogate's office, shows that she carried to the grave a family feud that began nearly a quarter of a century ago.
Of her personal estate, estimated at more than $1,000,000, her relatives will get not a penny unless they break her will.

Miss Hoyt died about three weeks ago at her home, 36 West Seventy-second street, leaving practically all of her large fortune to Maria Garnick, her companion for nearly 20 years.

Miss Hoyt, in her will, said that the public must not think she had forgotten her relatives because she left them
nothing; on the contrary she had borne them well in mind and did not for many reasons care to give them any part of her estate. She had nothing to do with relatives for many years, and it is said
refused to have any communication
with them after her father's death.

The family feud rose over the distribution of Joseph Hoyt's estate of $5,000,000.
He left to his widow, Mary Hoyt, the bulk of the estate, a trust fund of $1,750,000.
At her death the fund to be distributed among nieces and nephews. A legal fund was left to the daughter, Mary Irene, who contested the will.

The contest was carried from court to court. Miss Hoyt employed famous lawyers, who because of her eccentricities, one by one dropped her case.

Among them were Roscoe Conkling,
Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, Judge Fuller and Roger A. Pryor. On the other side were Joseph H. Choate, William H.
Evarts and Elihu Root.

After all the state courts had decided against Miss Hoyt and she had to accept the terms of her father's will, she announced that she would never again have any communication with her relatives. Some of them had her confined in a sanitarium.

When she got out she jumped into publicly by suing Hetty Green for $100-00 on a slander charge, which kept the courts busy for several years, but was finally settled out of court and the public must not think she had forgot-
ten her relatives because she left them
nothing; on the contrary she had borne
them well in mind and did not for many reasons care to give them any part of her estate. She had nothing to do with relatives for many years, and it is said
refused to have any communication
with them after her father's death.

But it was said that Hetty Green paid quite a sum in compromise.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ECLIPSED HORSES

A Horse With Some Horse Sense Reviews the Events of the First Night of the Horse Show and Comments on the Winners and the Spectators.

BY RED FEATHER,
A Popular Horse at the Horse Show.

It is pleasing to anticipate this evening's show, which we of the Famous Horse Family will give. The Queen of the Veiled Prophet's Ball, with her three maids of honor, will be among our guests; and that will put us on our mettle. We will be in better form tonight, anyhow. Last night we were mostly green, and badly handicapped by queer lights and strange music. The women were winners then—it would be absurd to dispute it.

That is, they were winners on number, style and appearance. But they scored no points on action.

I peeped into the window of a church one day and it was much the same. I saw the horse show—all the women in beautiful harness, but sitting perfectly still from start to finish. Except, of course they looked around at each other.

Ladies Were Too Quiet.
There was a beautiful track for them last night—one that ran all around the arena; but they didn't get out on it. They left it to the men—who leaned over it like so many "rail birds" at a racetrack.

It was quite a disappointment to me. The women didn't show off as well as they could and should. We in the arena saw them only as a quiet sea of blue and pink, shading off to white and lavender. I suppose I had better opportunity than any other competitor for ribbons to take a good view from the tan bark last night. I was in four events, and came away with three yellow ribbons hitched to my bridle.

I can't say that all of us behaved any too well while we were in the ring. Those Bratton horses—

But somebody explained that: Mr. Bratton has a lot of racers, it seems. After he spends all his care to spend on thoroughbreds that don't win, he makes hurdle racers of them, and sometimes, fortunately, they fall and break their necks.

That stops the expense; and that he may always be prepared to take this economical step he trains all his horses to be jumpers. That, it was explained to me, was why most of his show horses last night jumped into the ring, jumped for a large part of the time while they were there and eventually jumped out.

Horse on the Judges.
Mr. Clark's pretty sorrel, Duke, also showed some skill as a jumper. He jumped into the judges' stand on one occasion, and there was a terrible splintering and a most interesting scramble of fearless men in swallow-tail coats. I had the pleasure of rubbing noses with a most pleasing Kentucky-Guy Fortune of Louisville. Guy is a chestnut, and as a stepper there hasn't been a horse in any ring with me that can approach him. He is a sociable sort of fellow—not stuck up or fractious, and he made himself very agreeable in the harness event—which he had won as soon as he got on the tanbark. After that it was a contest between Cut Glass, a Bratton jumper, and me. Cut Glass got the red ribbon; and here's a

MAYOR OF FRANKFORT, KY.
Tells What Vinol Is Doing in the South.

"To Whom It May Concern: For the benefit of the people of St. Louis, permit me to say a few words in the columns of the Post-Dispatch endorsing the peerless merits of that modern cod liver oil preparation, Vinol."

"For years I suffered from indigestion, stomach trouble and general nervous debility. I had spent lots of money with different doctors and tried all kinds of medicines, but without any benefit whatever."

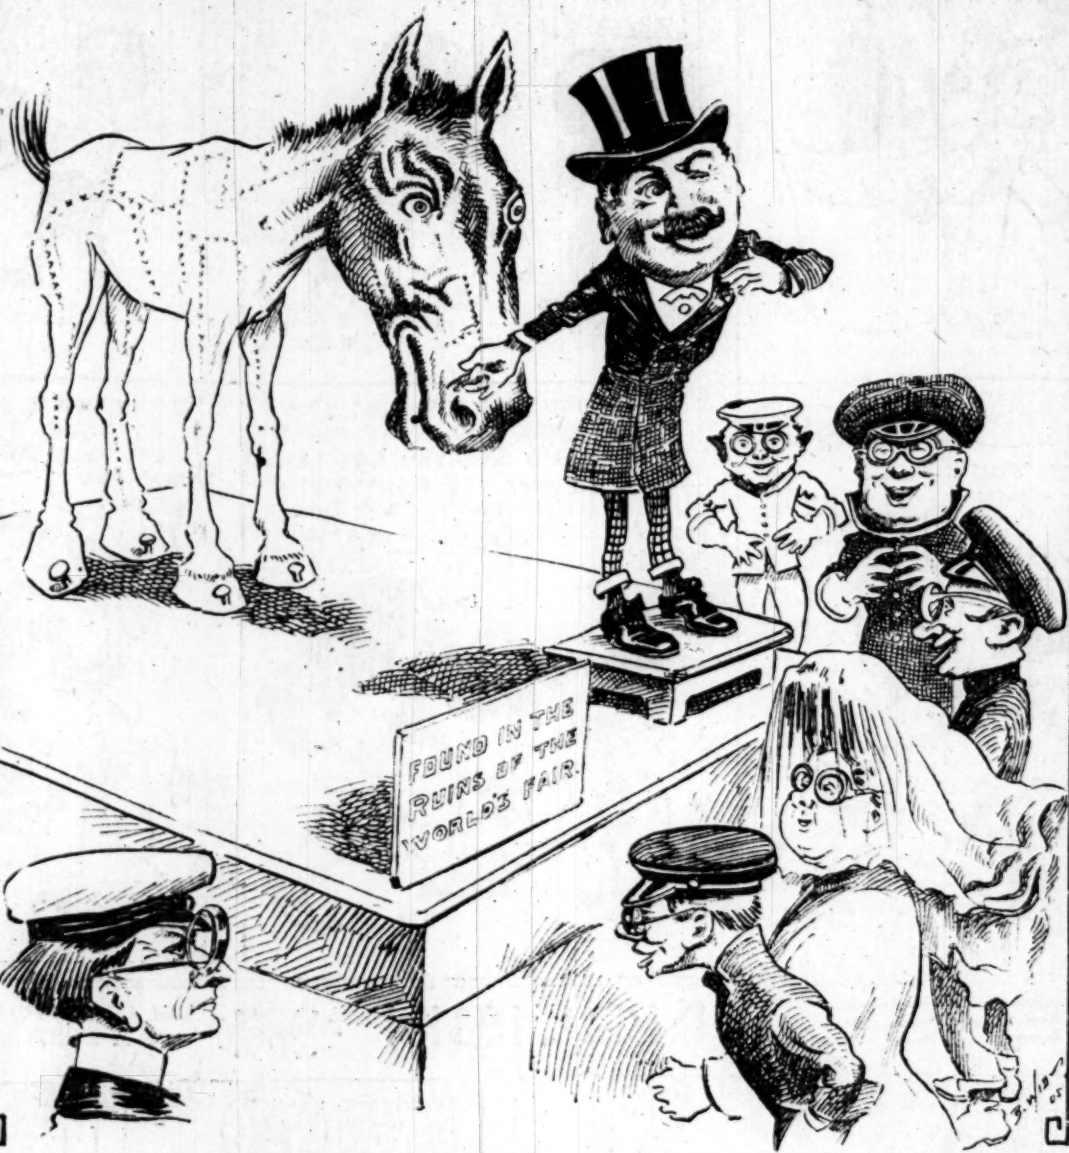

MAYOR DARNELL.

"Some of the city officials and prominent citizens here called my attention to what Vinol had accomplished for them, and I intended to give it a trial. I must confess that it certainly worked wonders for me. It was delicious to take and did not upset my stomach like old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsion; it gave me a hearty appetite, cured my stomach trouble and strengthened and invigorated my entire system. I wish every sick person in St. Louis would try this great cod liver oil preparation, Vinol."

J. S. Darnell, Mayor of Frankfort, Ky.

Mr. Wolff of the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. says: "The above letter is perfectly genuine, and we endorse all Mayor Darnell says. We guarantee Vinol to increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, renew the vitality of the aged, build up the run-down, tired and debilitated, make the weak strong, cure chronic coughs, colds, and build up the convalescent, or we will return to the purchaser every dollar paid for it." DECISIONS OF JUDGES OPEN TO CRITICISM

Many Mistakes Made by Messrs. Stericker, Crane and Wendroth in Pinning Ribbons on Winners—Mr. Jones Objects to Mr. Crane Passing on His Horses.

BY J. B. SHERIDAN.

Criticism of gentlemen who give their time gratis to the judgment of show horses is not pleasant. They do not receive any compensation for their trouble, save abuse from exhibitors. Unfortunately, some of the decisions given by Messrs. Crane, Stericker and Wendroth last night were open to impeachment. The awards which gave the stallion Guy Fortune, a real jewel. A stallion cannot be a runaway horse. There is, in fact, a law against him being so. Most states have a statute which prohibits the hitching of stallions to posts or fences in public places. Now, a runaway horse is one which, preferably, should stand unhitched in public, and certainly stand hitched. There is a law against his being hitched, as there is against Guy Fortune, how can he be a runaway horse?

The Guy Fortune Joke.
The judges did not know that Guy Fortune was a stallion until their attention was called to the fact by the writer. Mr. Stericker then said that he had known he would not have been given the prize. He added that the mistake was made by them when the secretary accepted his entry for the class.

but appointments did not count in this class, horses alone being considered. There was a tremendous howl in when the judges pinned the blue on Mr. Bratton's bay mare, Glenna, in the high-stepping class, one of the most important events of the show, in that it set an early precedent on which future decisions in this most prominent department will be based.

Gallant Lad Good.
Gallant Lad, owned by Mr. Jones, a horse of splendid action, especially hock, set the crowd on fire. He had all kinds of speed and landed his feet with wonderful flash. He looked all over a winner. Mr. Bratton thought so little of Glenna, who won, that he gave her to his man to drive and handled Goodwood, whom he bought to win this class, himself. Goodwood, a finely formed horse, rather a bit on the "ball" side, is green to show rings, and acted badly.

Dr. Crowley had his star, Ivan, here, but the nice stepper showed green, although the possessor of fine action and a sure corner. Mr. F. J. Foster made a good show of a Fox Queller. Glenna did not attract any attention until she had the blue on her bridge. When he heard of the award, the ill-mannered Goodwood third. Then the crowd got up and howled wildly.

While the writer thought the Gallant Lad should have had the ribbon, it must be conceded that Glenna is a very sweet mare, well-mannered, sound, gentle and a nice goer. She is not generally impressive, but when you go over the point for point, she "shows up" beautifully well. Then Gallant Lad, while a fine horse, was light and lank and would not have been a bit to his work. So, after all, the decision was not so bad as it looked, everything considered it was probably correct.

Objects to Mr. Crane.
However, it gave rise to a lot of talk. It developed after Gallant Lad had been placed second that Mr. Jones had sent his horses to St. Louis with the express proviso that Mr. Herbert Crane should not judge them. There is a feud of long standing between the gentlemen. Mr. Crane judged Mr. Jones' horses last year, and Mr. Jones' objection to his officiating, he said that he would not pass upon any classes in which the Jones horses competed. Mr. Jones was not present.

In pairs to brougham for local pairs to brougham. Mr. Bush showed a world-beating jumper in White Stockings, ridden by Frank Parlo. She won the hunting class and is really a grand fencer and up to any weight.

The winning of the potato race by Mr. Earl Sandusky on a Missouri-bred mule was a feature. The son of a Malaga jackass put it all over the swell ponies of the Country Club sets and won with his long ears pricked.

PREACHERS NEED POWER AND FAITH

Rev. J. Wesley Johnson Talks to Congregational Ministers on "Pulpit Power."

MODERN METHODS BAD

This Divine Holds That the Effective Preacher Must Be Convincing.

Preachers who have departed from the gospel of positive knowledge were vigorously arraigned by Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Johnson of 5006 Page boulevard, in a lecture on pulpit power, delivered before the Congregational ministers' meeting Monday.

"In place of the disciple and apostle before whom kings trembled and mobs were subdued, have come the sensationalist and essayist preacher who talk," said Dr. Johnson, "though they may draw."

"Positive power is the prime requisite of the preacher of today. He must believe what he speaks or his congregation will not believe him."

Powerful Preachers Needed.
"Churches are seeking all over the globe for ministers with this power, as are the schools, and while many ministers are seeking for it, their yearning for power are not satisfied. Many churches are so feeble as to be barely alive and are kept going by their inherited strength aided by sensationalism and artificial revival," said Dr. Johnson, "judging not their work."

"Some suppose this power to be located in mere accidents of culture and style. Some base it on scholastic culture and pastors consume themselves by devotion to classical, pagan, speculative and imaginative literature, uniting themselves for the simple gospel they should preach to simple folks. They preach the philosophy of Comte instead of that of the Bible."

"Some lean to the other extreme and say that theology alone should be preached, but doctrinal sermons seem powerful only to put many to sleep, while ethical sermons that awake no consciences and philanthropic ones that extend no hand of help are continually heard."

"Some men find their sentimental essays evaporate in mists, and these who place their hope for power in skillful choosing of topics find it all in vain. With them is another class, who think power resides in composition and think their people demand a high finish and classical language. They also draw and suppress themselves with themselves, but they have no pulpit power. Their sermons are spoiled by too much finish and they come to the pulpit so exhausted by preparation they have no strength to preach what they have prepared."

Scorns Sensationalists.

"As for the sensationalists, who say power resides in paradoxes, who draw on nature for their illustrations, diffuse metaphor and hyperbole through their sermon, become witty and humorous, trying to be Shakespeares or Victor Hugos in the pulpit, these all fail to gain power."

"Neither are dull, prosy, dead-level sermons from God, though many preach

CARMEL, Ill., Oct. 10.—While attempting to rescue Mrs. Jack Brevier from her drunken husband, who was beating her this morning, George D. Endicott was in turn attacked by Brevier and badly cut. Endicott grabbed a poker and killed Brevier.

In less than three hours the Coroner's jury met and exonerated Endicott. Mrs. Brevier is living with her stepdaughter. She has frequently been beaten by her husband.

Others lay great stress on delivery and extemporaneous speaking. They may gain by the power of the human eye, but when true power, like that of Hall and Chalmers, has converted and edified thousands from written sermons the modern preacher should not be afraid of his notes.

"Church papers are everywhere calling attention to the lack of positive power and condemning the sensationalist who rolls out his deep and mighty tones, lets his voice sink to a whisper, stamps, clasps his hands and exclaims about his pulpit."

"Perhaps the congregations demand these things and have forced their will on the preacher, but they are not on stable ground and are in their true work because of their lack of the positive power that the disciples received on Pentecost. They lack the call that is the true preacher's greatest inspiration to power."

CHARITIES TO ASK AN INVESTIGATION

Managers of Orphans' and Widows' Homes Will Appeal to Grand Jury.

GRAFT ACCUSATIONS

Indiscriminate Charges, They Say, Injure Them by Causing Many Doubts.

A meeting of matrons and managers of various widows' and orphans' homes will be held Thursday evening at the Old Ladies' and Children's Home, 205 Lucas avenue, of which Mrs. L. Cox is matron, to organize.

A resolution will be introduced calling for a grand jury investigation of every charity work in St. Louis.

By a formal statement, published by the general manager of one of the large charity organizations, warning the public against giving money to collectors for charity work unless equipped with strong credentials, the managers of the smaller charities feel they have been placed in a bad light before the public.

References to Graft.
They resent the fact that several statements, concerning alleged graft in the matter of such collections, were made without giving names, and in such a manner as to leave their own legitimate and authorized collectors under a cloud.

Being small, they say, they have far more difficulty in obtaining money with which to sustain their work than the larger organizations.

If there is a graft in connection with charity work, say the managers of these smaller charities, it should be inquired into and the grafters punished. The only way to remove all doubts, they say, is to investigate every charity organization in every large city.

Another object of the meeting is to arrange for monthly meetings and to organize, in effect, an associated charities, such as exists in many large cities.

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis each day are greater than the number of St. Louis homes.

Doughty couldn't get enough "dough."

Is Roosevelt the angel who is to rescue St. Louis from the dragon?

What lawyer will become famed throughout this great State by giving it a perfect tax law?

ATTORNEY-GENERAL HADLEY'S HINT.

In his decision on the Ramsey-Gould injunction suit Judge Taylor clearly indicates the opportunity for action in behalf of the people of Missouri which the Post-Dispatch told Attorney-General Hadley he might find in the facts brought to light by Mr. Ramsey. Judge Taylor used the following significant language:

The Court, after giving to all questions of fact and law presented to it the most careful consideration which the time at its disposal would permit, finds the record in this case so replete with evidence of violations of the provisions of certain of the Missouri laws enacted for the protection of the public that it has been loath to reach the conclusions herein expressed.

Judge Taylor remarked that the action is one in equity between individuals involving only private rights in which the public has no interest except that of seeing justice done. For this reason he refrains from giving an opinion as to the specific violation of the constitutional clause and the statute cited by the plaintiff. He refuses the injunction on the ground that Mr. Ramsey's hands are not clean, having himself voted the Walsh stock held by the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain, in previous elections of Walsh directors. The question of equity decided does not concern the violation of law, of which Mr. Ramsey had been guilty in the past, but the question of injury to Mr. Ramsey's property interests. The Court could not find that Mr. Ramsey's interests would be injured by the voting of the stock, nor did Mr. Ramsey make clear what Mr. Gould intends to do if he shall elect his directors through the voting of the stock.

The people of Missouri are not deeply interested in the triumph of either the Ramsey or the Gould factions, but they are interested in the things that Mr. Gould and Mr. Ramsey have been doing with the railroads in Missouri and with the laws of Missouri; they are interested in what the winners of this contest may do hereafter with Missouri railroads and laws.

Judge Taylor's significant statement, that the record is "replete with evidence of violations of the Missouri laws" is of great importance to the people of the State. It has a deep interest for Attorney-General Hadley, who represents the people and who has the power to make the Government of Missouri representing the people a party to a suit against the law-breaking railroads. The issue of "clean hands" will not obstruct his action.

The laws which were cited as having been violated were section 17, article 12 of the Constitution, and section 1052 of the Revised Statutes, prohibiting common ownership, control or management of parallel and competing railroads.

Now that Attorney-General Hadley has a clear indication from the bench of the Court's opinion that the laws of Missouri have been violated, what will he do?

As the Republicans are to have a full Texas ticket, the Vermont Democrats may presently become active.

IN RE HYMEN—"NOT GUILTY."

Mr. George William Raney, soon to be married, St. Louis, after having been best man at 69 weddings, reveals even greater confidence in the certain laws of matrimony than if he had been married 69 times and was now preparing to honeymoon with his seventh bride.

In the latter event, it might be said by cynics that marriage had become merely a habit with Mr. Raney and that he was unable to break himself of the habit, whether or not he had discovered that it did him more harm than good. Wherefore, his return to matrimony after his sixtieth widowhood would have possessed no especial significance of indorsement.

But to have waited critically and, having contemplated the subsequent fortunes of the 69 couples with whom he had stood up at the altar, then to go to that altar himself as a principal, voices Mr. Raney's unqualified approval of the married state. His action is commended to popular attention. It should tremendously hearten timid souls that shrink from Hymen's hazard.

The World's Fair visitors were astonished to see only two bridges at St. Louis.

THE BEST DRESSED WOMEN IN THE WORLD.

St. Louis women are the best dressed women in the world. Miss Alexia Durant has said it. It is not the highly cultivated, travel disciplined woman of whom she speaks. Women of that sort are pretty much alike the world over. It is the grand, compact, average woman who is awarded the blue ribbon for taste.

"The average German woman's dress is unspokeably bad," says Miss Alexia Durant. Then, as if to make her remarks appear like a dissertation on causation, she adds: "The German woman has made a deeper study of woman's emancipation than any other nation." English women have splendid figures but their gowns don't fit. The French woman puts most of her money in her petticoat and knows how to let it be seen without any distracting accompaniment, which an American woman can't do, says Miss Alexia Durant.

With this saving clause judgment is awarded American women. And of these the St. Louis woman is easily first. She is "all right."

We always knew it. Didn't we tell you so? We have the bridge arbitrary, overcrowded street cars and other undesirable things. But what are these but notes to trouble the mind's eye, since we have the best dressed women in the world to mitigate ever mischief, soften the features of ugliness and mold them into forms of heavenly delight?

The hearing Friday afternoon before the Council Committee on Railroads on the bond issue and free bridge should be well attended. Every organization in the city connected in any way with vital public interests should be represented, and individual citizens will have an opportunity to get their views before committee in an effective shape. Every St. Louisan, poor as well as rich, is interested in this question. The opportunity for an exhaustive discussion should not be neglected.

NEED OF HEALTH.

"To succeed a man must be well physically," Rev. Dr. Landrith said at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday. "The twentieth century is strenuous, full of temptations, one of enthusiasm and enlightenment."

This is good. Physical health, which is bodily power, is just as necessary as mental health, which is intellectual power. But he goes on:

"It is a disgrace to be physically incapable of grasping opportunities."

Is it a disgrace to be born in the wrong place, where conditions make health in infancy absolutely impossible? Many, if not most, of the bodily ills of mankind originate in the first years of life. Again, is it a disgrace for a man to lose health and strength while working in conditions not of his own making? He must work.

Statements like this of Dr. Landrith's do no good and may do harm. The better way, it would seem, is to address healing words to the patient. Calling him a disgrace only hurts his feelings or makes him smile, according to his habitual mental state. The way of the Nazarene is the better way.

After the baby statistics given in the latest Sunday Post-Dispatch, Mr. Roosevelt will surely feel like dropping his presidential duties to come here and talk to us like a Dutch uncle.

There may be luck in horse shows as well as in horse shoes. This is horse-show week in St. Louis.

THE CAUSE OF OLD MAIDS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why are old maids? I love home life above any other; have had experience in a business life. I am a good housekeeper, an excellent seamstress, am good for my husband and a credit to my community. I am not exacting, am lenient with one's faults, am not faultless myself, and make a good appearance from "top to toe."
Still, I am single at 25, while girls who are not nearly so competent to make their married life a pleasure to their husbands and a credit to their country, are being chosen as wives, and I am overlooked. Five years ago I was engaged to a man, and I don't see any prospect of saving the next few years. And all this through the misplaced estimate of women by men. My experience with men teaches me that they do not look to the worth of women, but follow where their fancy leads, until they become instructed, and women know what that means. Good women who have good sense prefer to be old maids. X. Y. C.

NO MORE A SLAVE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
An economic phenomena to be reckoned with in dealing with the subject of race suicide is the growing independence of our women; all honor and courtesy to them. They will no longer be the matrimonial slave of their "lord and master" and the "child-making machine" for a Government in which they have no voice and which leaves their offspring to a life of economic slavery. R. T. Z.

BARKIS IS WILLIN'.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Speaking of babies: I am 25 years old. I am eager to marry (a suitable man), so I can start a home and prepare for a large family. I would like many children for many reasons; and of which are delightful to a womanly woman—upmost of which is that children provide companionship for me in old age. I would like to have enough left so as not to be altogether minus companions in my old age. My father, sister and brothers are all apt to pass out of my life, and one's own blood and bone are the only companionable companions for anyone. A. B. C.

A PLEA FOR FAIR PLAY.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Talking of bond issues and taxes, I have a house and lot valued at $500, assessed at $400. On looking up the assessment of property downtown that sold for $50 a foot, I find it is $100.
I am not objecting to present taxes on my property, but believe all should pay their just taxes, and if any favors are to be shown, by all means grant it to manufacturing and the average workingman's property. Instead of improving King's highway, which is too far distant at present to be within reach of the average citizen, if we would make a few more nice parks and playgrounds amongst the masses, the returns on the investment would be enormous. The average man cannot afford an automobile or carriage, while those who can and would get the benefit of the boulevard, only pay a small proportion of the cost. So the best way to solve the bond issue question is to put men in office who will give us a fair assessment and enforce tax collections and not play favorites. FAIR PLAY.

THE MURPHY LEECHES.

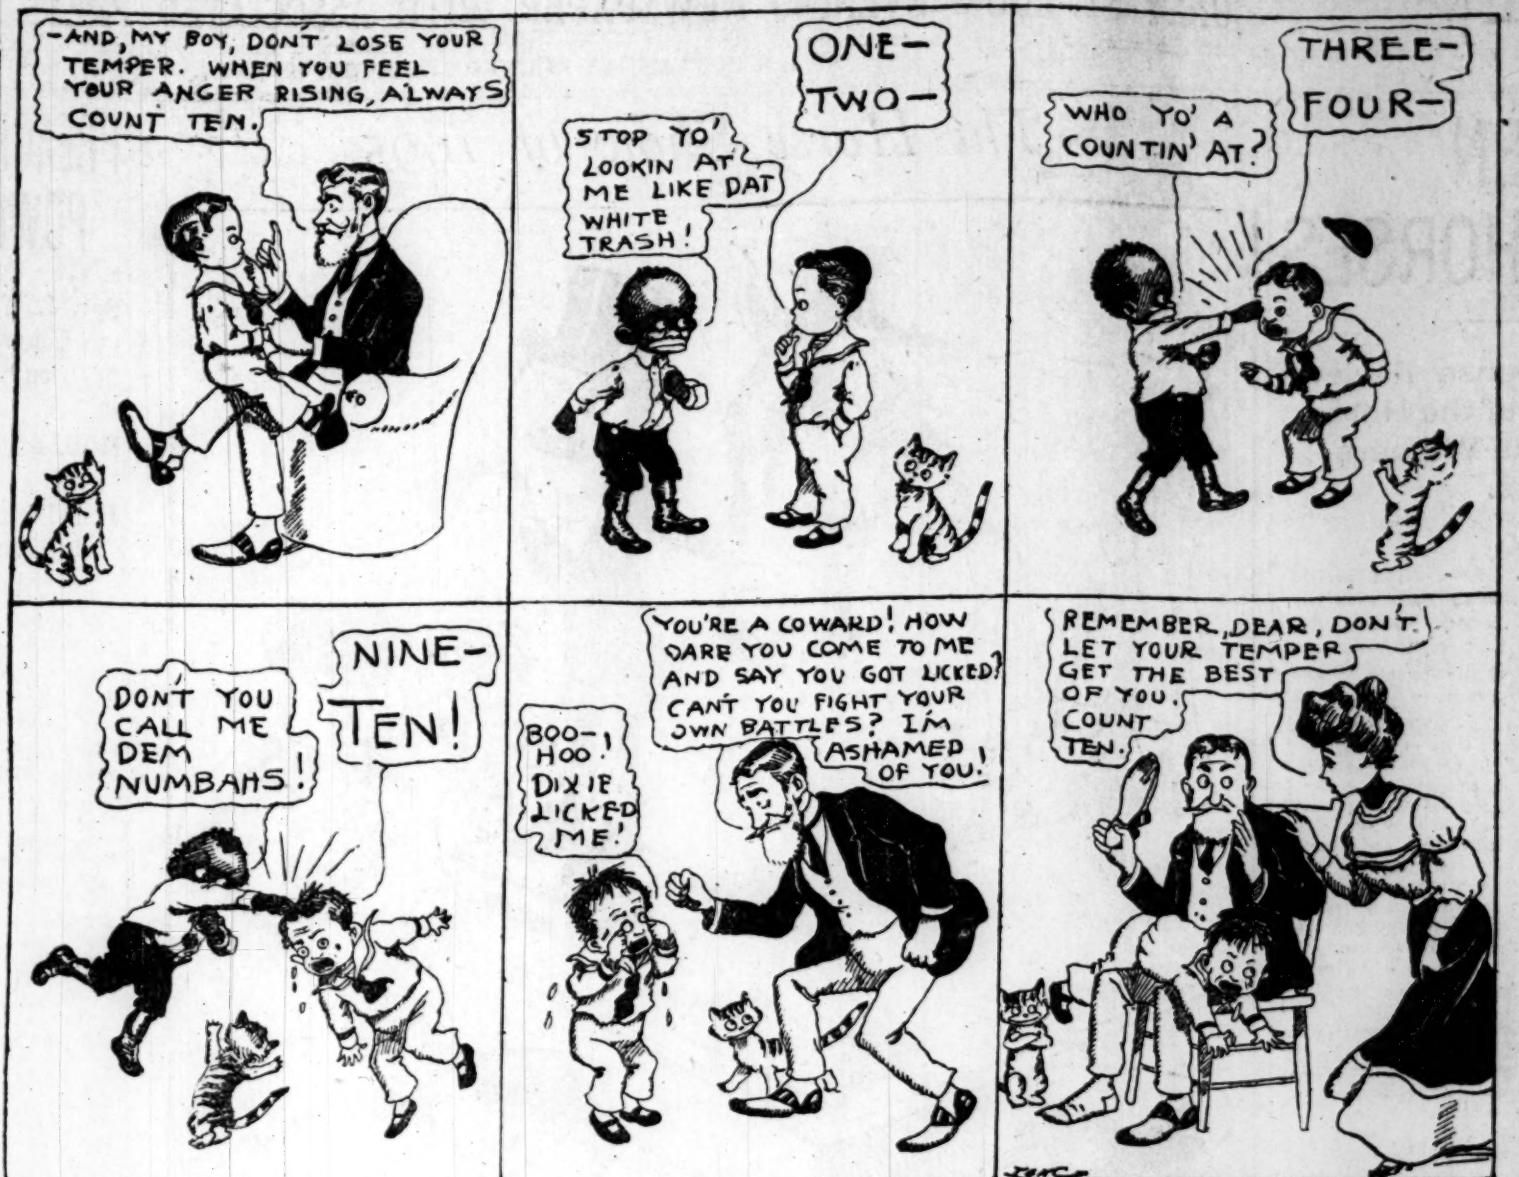

From the New York World.
The Mutual disclosures show porcine greed. The cousin, niece's husband and the rest, should have been satisfied to divide evenly and to give the policy holders a square half of the money coming to them. Son McCurdy alone showed a realization of the family obligations in voluntarily reducing his bonus, which otherwise would have soon swallowed up all the dividends.
In its simplicity the McCurdy family system has commendable features. The money was not hid. It was not squandered on others. It was there, and the McCurdys took it for themselves.
Naturally the dividends were "deferred"—a delusion in which it held out hope that they would really be paid some day.

NEW YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—"McCurdy's perjury" is the matter of fact caption over the World's leading editorial today, in which it says: "Mutual Life Insurance Co. receives a salary of $150,000 a year. It is probably the largest salary paid in the United States. It is $50,000 in excess of President McCall's salary and $70,000 in excess of President Morton's salary."

"Robert H. McCurdy, son of Richard M., is a Director in the Mutual, general manager of the company, a member of the finance committee, and has been connected with the institution for twenty years."

"What is the salary of the president of the company?" asked Mr. Hughes of Robert H. McCurdy.

"I do not know," was the reply. "My father," said the boy to the venerable conundrum, "has a brother who is not my uncle. The answer is the same in both cases: 'The boy lied.' More-over Robert H. McCurdy lied under oath and is therefore guilty of perjury. His case demands immediate action on the part of William Travers Jerome, District Attorney of New York County."

WHY WOMEN LIE.

By NIKOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

WHY women sin and why they love and why they do almost everything else under the sun that they do or don't do has been told all of us who have the price of a seat at a melodrama. But I don't recall any one's having written a play to expound why women lie.

Why, for instance, does a stenographer making $10 a week and wondering what she would do if she lost her job, when she has nothing else to worry over, constantly entertain the office boy and occasionally even her employer, with vain-glorious accounts of the number of "magnificent positions" that have been offered her?

Why does the girl uptown who has just become possessed of a $30 bargain suit confide to her bosom friends that it was made to order by a tailor for $8?

Why does a vivid brunette come down to breakfast with strawberry hair and explain to her wondering husband that she is afraid she got a little too much ammonia in the water when she washed it? Why?—but the catalogue of these petty prevarications is endless.

Why cannot women understand that to lie to a person is to pay him tribute, and that truth in all things is the highest compliment we can pay ourselves?

Of course, the discouragement of the woman truth-teller faces are many. It takes nerve to smilingly admit you are 35 when there are sprightly grandmothers floating around confessing to 22. The most effective argument against lying, it seems to me, is not that it is wrong, but that it is ridiculous.

People worth lying to are rarely deceived, and the feeling a lie inspires in them is one of pity and self-satisfaction. The ostrich, seeking concealment, hides its head in the sand, leaving its long, lean legs and spreading tail feathers in full view. Only rare and accomplished liars display greater sagacity.

A lie has so many tail feathers and they can seldom be all concealed.

No liar can possibly have any self-respect. For his very lie proves that he thinks more of another's opinion than of his own.

I don't think women lie more than men, but they do it in smaller ways and on smaller things.

Many of us have no better reason for it than because other women do it. And that ought to be a reason for quitting.

Lies and bluffs of all sorts are just so much padding of defective characters. If our characters are standard they don't need to be padded. And if they are not we should strive to build up their deficiencies, not cover them over.

Some women never are satisfied. Mrs. Lechinsky of St. Louis complains because she finds that her husband is not a count. Yet his father is a real estate dealer.

What I Heard and Saw

BY A ST. LOUISIAN.

ON THE day after the Veiled Prophet ball "Dave" Francis and a group of other eminent St. Louisians were casually discussing the features of the time-honored function in its latest materialization.

"Seems to me," remarked one of the number, "that there were more strangers there than ever before. St. Louis must be growing rapidly, because there were certainly a lot of new faces at the ball this year—more than I ever saw before, anyway."

"By George, I think you're right!" exclaimed Mr. Francis. "I believe there were fully three persons present who were strangers to me!"

And this was said in all earnestness by the World's Fair president and former Governor of Missouri, who is credited with being able to recognize at sight and call by name a greater number of Missourians than any other man in the State.

I met Robert H. Kern, chairman of the Missouri Commission to the Portland Exposition, on Broadway the other day, sunburned and about twenty pounds heavier than when he first went out on the Lewis and Clark trail.

"It's a great show—they took what they wanted from the St. Louis World's Fair and made it so," said Mr. Kern enthusiastically. "The management and the railroads alike are astonished at the attendance, which surpasses the most hopeful expectations. The enterprise was out of debt a month ago, and crowds have been pouring into Portland since that time."

"The explanation of the big attendance, given me by the management, is both frank and simple. 'East-erners come out to see the country,' they say, 'and our own people of the West come to see the Fair. That accounts for the crowds.'"

"And that seems to be about the size of it."

I've no doubt in the world that St. Louis men will contribute liberally to make the Horse Show a brilliant success, because the Horse Show, like the Veiled Prophets' parade and ball, helps to increase the city's autumnal attractiveness. But I have to smile when I think of the rejoinder of one wealthy, yet somewhat frugal, old St. Louisian who was approached on the subject.

"Oh, yes," he said. "I'll do all I can to help boom the Horse Show just as much as any of you—but let me tell you, my friend, I'm contributing pretty freely to it as matters now stand. I've a wife and two grown daughters—and I'll be hornswoggled if I don't believe they're ordering all the gowns in the world and will try to wear each and every one of 'em somehow during Horse Show week. Don't you make any mistake—I'm contributing all right!" And then he sighed.

Z.—Some avoid insomnia by closing the mind to all thought. This can be accomplished by practice. Shut out everything as soon as the head touches the pillow. Counting numbers backward and forward will sometimes bring sleep. Counting imaginary sheep jumping over a Naugahyde fence water to four times. Rolling under the eyeballs or gazing intently with closed eyes toward the roof of the nose often induces a state of the body and mind to sleep on slumber. It is said when in deep thought, the mind being especially active, the eyeballs turn white. When sleepless, try to turn them green. Perhaps you eat too much or eat indigestible food. Be in open air as much as possible.

THROUGH THE LANCERS

By LILLIAN QUILLER COUCH.

WHEN Geoffrey Gammel entered a certain ballroom a month ago, having left his widowed aunt on a lounge in an alcove with maiden contemporaries, it so happened that he did not know a soul in the place except his host and hostess.

Geoffrey Gammel was a man with much experience, and, he affirmed, no heart.

"It is patent to any eye that you dance well," said his hostess, looking him over with a relieved smile as they shook hands. "Let me introduce you—Her gaze wandered, her voice trailed off, and the little pink chiffon girl, who happened to be passing, was on Geoffrey's arm before he had had time to suffer from his friendless situation.

"Pink Chiffon" had, as Geoffrey mentally expressed it, "nothing in her." She looked dainty and fresh. "So," argued Geoffrey, "does a pink blanc-mange never could stand blanc-mange. And he formed up dully in the Lancers.

Because it was pretty and no one objected that it was old, the "Lancers" music had been chosen, and, with half his mind recollecting the first time he had seen the opera, Geoffrey advanced to meet his vis-a-vis.

"I am desperate." Three words, low but distinct, crossed the "Lancers" reminiscences and reached his brain.

At this moment, of course, he knew just three persons in the room—host, hostess and "Pink Chiffon." But the three words were from none of these. In a flash he realized that they came from his vis-a-vis, the dainty girl in white silk, with violets trailing down her bodice, but, even as he realized, he was, of course, retiring, according to the insistence of the music. So also, of course, was the white silk girl.

To the man of experience few things should come as a surprise. Geoffrey, therefore, as the saying is, turned not a hair. Instead, when he found himself, according to the laws of Lancers, face to face with "White Silk" again, he said, "Toll me why," as he turned in the center before retiring.

She looked at him with eyes which truly were as desperate as they were beautiful; then, moving back to their places they waited for the next figure.

Through all the next intricacies of the dance Geoffrey felt the force of the girl's personality, and "Because we wear broadcloth instead of velvet is no reason why the twentieth century should not be as interesting as the tenth," he argued with himself; and he strained his ears for the next confidence.

It came, a word or two at a time. "My stepmother—in the recess—blue satin—is watching me."

"I see," he replied in low, even syllables. "Stepmother's son—white-sheep-faced—by the door."

He looked again. "I see," he repeated. "My—my fiancé—tail—eyeglass—dance—next set."

"I see." Then they set to partners and turned back to their places.

The whole of the third figure was fanned before they could speak again. Then:

"I must escape—tonight. She is taking me."

Geoffrey Gammel, with a lady in a hooded, ermine-trimmed, black satin cloak of voluminous make, passed out from the brilliant hall into the night his widowed aunt, all unconscious of the liberty being taken with her wardrobe, discussed with a colonial bishop the merits of a cup of hot tea after an ice.

The blue satin lady in the recess of the ballroom looked herself complacently as she kept her eye on Mr. Jermyn. Mr. Jermyn's own eyes were a little strained in expression, but his hands, the only parts of him which shook, he kept in his pockets.

"I come with you," said Geoffrey Gammel with quiet decision to "White Silk," as he helped her into a cab.

"Oh, no!" she said quickly. "Yes," he said peremptorily. "Mr. Jermyn would see that it was best. You—passed his hand over his eyes to shut out her beautiful face—"You must trust me right through."

Without another word she made room for him beside her, and without another word they drove through the night.

"White Silk" looked pale and rather frightened when at length he parted from her in the hotel, after seeing her in the care of the chambermaid, to be taken to the room reserved for "Mrs. Jermyn." But his hand-clasp brought her courage back.

"I—have never thanked you," she tried to begin, the waiting-maid watching them.

"Of course not," he said, in an every-day tone. "I am so glad I happened to be there."

There she went up the stairs; and he went down the steps and out into the world again.

Geoffrey Gammel was strolling in Fountain court that afternoon, when he saw her coming slowly down the walk. It was coincidence. She recognized him instantly.

"I must say thank you," she said impulsively.

"Please say anything," he smiled, taking her hand—"but not 'thank you.' You are safe?"

"I am waiting for my husband," she said, with shy confidence.

"Tell me where you live, please. I must know."

"14 Count street, S. W. And you are—"

"We are going to Paris tonight." "May I offer congratulations?" "Thank you—oh, thank you for everything!"

That evening Geoffrey Gammel sat for some time looking at the black satin cloak trimmed with ermine, which had been sent back to him. From the lace at the throat he had unrolled a bunch of faded violets. He was certain that his aunt had not worn violets. He was sure "White Silk" had never worn them there. He understood.

Geoffrey held the flowers in his fingers and pretended to be cynical; then he laughed—rather desolately.

ing me—out of England—tomorrow."

"She objects." "Wants me to marry—him—her—son."

"You must dance—the next dance—with me."

"I—dare—not."

"Yes," commandingly.

No more words were spoken. The violins drew out the last notes. The Lancers were finished. Geoffrey, with "Pink Chiffon" on his arm, strolled toward the conservatory, and talked of the best remedy for green fly on roses—"Pink Chiffon" gardened a little in the summer; while his mind was with "White Silk," and his ear strained for the violins, heralds of the next waltz.

"Pink Chiffon" caught her breath with pleasure even at the after-thoughts, and she looked sentimentally at the name on her program as he went from her to seek "White Silk." Such was Geoffrey Gammel's tact.

"Now," he said, as at last he placed his arm on the white silk waist and the scent of violets was wafted up to him. "Shall we sit it out?"

"No; they would suspect," she answered as they gilded out into the crowd of dancers.

"Then tell me how I can help."

"I must get away from here when this dance is over," she declared, her face unemotional beneath the watching eyes from the recess, her voice coming slowly and evenly as the voice of the heroine in melodrama when the orchestra plays slow music. "They are watching, but you are a stranger now. Only a stranger can help me—if we danced together a second time they would suspect."

"Shall I take you straight out? Have you yourself made any arrangements?" With all his questions, he never questioned the part she had demanded of him.

"I must walk till I see a cab; then drive as long as I can; then go to the Carrick Hotel. Mr. Jermyn will meet me there."

"You intend to be married in the morning?"

"He has had the license for a week."

"And Mr. Jermyn—now?"

"I must go alone. He must stay here and show himself till the end."

"I understand."

"I—I was driven to telling you," she faltered. "You do see, don't you, that it had to be a stranger?"

"I am honored," he replied gravely. "The escape from here will be the greatest risk."

"The ticket," he said, a smile at the corners of his mouth, "for my aunt's cloak is in my possession. When you see my aunt's cloak you will not fear."

What novelists call "the last throbbing bars of the dreamy waltz" were being drawn out on the violins.

"Come," he said quietly, and he led her, under the nose of the blue satin stepmother, to the vestibule, and so, with seemingly nonchalant steps, to the cloakroom.

Fay Dunkle as a Child and as He Now Appears

FAY DUNKLE MAY GET HIS MONEY

Youth Who Doesn't Know His Real Name I. Probably Identified.

The story of Fay Dunkle, a checker in a St. Louis restaurant who is eagerly awaiting news regarding an estate left to him by a foster father and which he thinks evidence goes to show he is defrauded of, has been brought to the attention of the Chicago authorities through its exclusive publication in the Post-Dispatch, and there is a probability that Dunkle will get at least a small portion of the money that is due him.

In the meantime Dunkle is awaiting a letter from Mary B. White of Rockford, Ill. Mrs. White claims to be Fay Dunkle's own mother, and the statements she has made in several letters to the boy has led him to believe that the woman may really be his mother, although men associated with Dunkle after the supposed death of his parents disclaim any knowledge of this woman.

Administrator Sent to Prison.

A dispatch from Chicago says that Dunkle's case adds another chapter to the long story of the misdeeds of the former public administrator, William J. Young, who was sent to the Penitentiary eight years ago for betraying his trust.

Dunkle's foster father was John Dunkle, a saloon keeper at 322 West Lake street. John Dunkle died, leaving, as far as is known, Fay Dunkle the sole heir to an estate which was appraised at about $5,000. Young was the public administrator at the time, and Fay Dunkle, then about 6 years old, was returned to the Illinois Manual Training School at Glenwood, where he had been placed by his foster father before the latter's death.

Oscar L. Dudley, secretary and superintendent of the manual training school, makes the statement that Young had charge of Dunkle as his ward for several months paid the institution $10 a month for the boy's keep. Later on, however, Young became negligent and finally owed the school $90. Dudley says it was only by threats that he was able to make Young pay the school what was due it.

Dunkle stated to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday that twice during his stay at the training school he signed papers which bore some relation to the estate that had been left him, but he does not know what these papers were and has never been able to get them. He knows very little about his early life. He says that he was sent to the training school when he was 6 years old and remained there for 12 years, when he was sent to W. C. Hunt, a farmer at Cotton, Mo. He remained with Hunt four years and after going to Colorado finally came back East and located in St. Louis a year ago.

OFFICERS DIDN'T KNOW.

Men at Head of North American Investment Co. Ignorant of Receipts.

H. H. Cocks, auditor, and William H. Savage, superintendent of accounts of the North American Investment Co., were unable to make definite statements of the receipts of the company in their depositions taken Monday afternoon before United States Judge T. W. Williams in the Missouri Trust Building.

The case is that of Mr. M. Heinrich against the investment company, seeking to collect $308.

Savage said the company did a very large business, employing as many as 150 agents at times, but he could not make an estimate of the receipts. It may have been more, he said, or it may have been less. He never heard the matter discussed at meetings of the Board of Directors, he said.

Cocks said he understood that there is now $120,000 in the reserve fund. He said, while he was auditor and a director of the company, he knew little of the company's operating expenses, rents, salaries or agents' commissions. He did not know what proportion of investors allowed their subscriptions to lapse, he said. The treasurer attended to all those things, he said.

The meetings were never discussed at directors' meetings, Cocks said.

J. Messer, by the former employer of Thies and by the pastor of his church.

THIEVES IN DEAF MUTE'S WAKE

Four Stores in Sullivan, Mo., Looted After His Visit.

Asked Help in Getting Education, but Didn't Call for Gifts.

A robber band, supposed to be led by a "fake" deaf mute, got all the money and much of the goods in four stores at Sullivan, Mo., 28 miles from St. Louis, on the Frisco Railroad Monday night. A supposed deaf mute appeared in Sullivan Monday morning, and disappeared Monday night. He made the rounds of the stores, leaving cards asking for help to go to school, but he did not return to collect the cards or to get the gifts the cards were supposed to collect.

The robberies were discovered at daylight Tuesday, when the stores were opened for the day. From the Sullivan Mercantile Co. had been taken almost $100 in cash, and clothing whose value has not been determined. From the Sullivan Hardware Co. was taken a quantity of revolvers, razors and other hardware. From William Clark's store a quantity of clothing and more than $50 in cash, and from J. B. Maddox's drug store two dozen fountain pens, some clear and $50 in cash.

In each case the burglars gained easy access, and completed the robbery without having to resort to explosives. No one detected them at their work, and they made their escape without leaving a trace. It is supposed they had at a convenient point, a wagon in which to carry the bulky stuff they stole.

HOW DO YOU CHOOSE YOUR SHOES?

If you are skilled enough to select your shoes by the quality of the leather, you'll know the eleven different Regal leathers for exactly what they are—the highest grades that can be tanned; you'll know them by the looks and by the "feel."

If you select your shoes by finding first the style that pleases you, you have 35 brand-new Regal models to choose from—not one over six weeks from the first appearance of its made-to-order original.

If you want first of all the right shape and size, there's a Regal last exactly like your foot, a Regal shoe shaped on it and ready for you,—and a full range of quarter-sizes to make the fitting sure.

Don't go somewhere else and pay $6 for your next pair of shoes just because you've always done it. $6 won't buy a better shoe in any one last little detail—leather, linings, tongues, eyelets, hooks, straps or stitching.

Send for Style-Book. Mail Orders Promptly Filled. Sold direct from tannery to consumer. The largest retail shoe business in the world. 97 stores in principal cities from London to San Francisco.
